Monthly Commentary

South Africa: The positive start to 2019 continued as the JSE All Share has now recorded back-to-back positive monthly returns. The local bourse added 3.4% during the month to end on 56 002 index points. Strong global corporate earnings, ongoing trade talks between the U.S and China, a weaker Rand, and a dovish tone out of the U.S Federal Reserve as well as the Bank of England pushed markets higher. Locally it was a busy month which included more bad news than good. On the (somewhat) positive side, President Cyril Ramaphosa delivered the 2019 State of the Nation address, in which he sounded serious about reform at Eskom as he announced the struggling SOE will be restructured into three separate entities namely: generation, transmission and distribution. The President also announced R100bn in spending will go towards infrastructure development over the next 10 years. Inflation also continued to decline, dropping from 4.5% in December, measured year-on-year (YoY), to 4.0% in January. This opens the door to a possible rate cut in 2019. On the negative side, February saw the return of load-shedding, of which the effects are sure to be seen in the coming months. The ABSA manufacturing PMI also fell from 50.7 in December to 49.9 in January, falling short of the consensus number of 50.5 and mining output also declined by 4.8% as gold and copper production disappointed. The Rand lost ground against the US Dollar (-6.0%), British Pound (-7.1%) and the Euro (-5.2%) during the month.

International: The S&P 500 (+3.0), Dow Jones (+3.7%) and Nasdaq (+3.4%) all ended the month higher. The minutes of the January Federal Open Market Committee meeting confirmed the dovish shift in thinking at the Fed, with the word "patience" repeatedly being mentioned. Fourth quarter GDP numbers exceeded expectations, coming in at 2.6% YoY vs expectations of 2.3% YoY. As at the end of February 96% of S&P 500 companies have reported results for the final quarter of 2018. With 69% of them reporting a positive EPS surprise and 61% a positive revenue surprise. European markets recorded back-to-back positive months to start 2019. The Euro Stoxx 50 (+4.4%), FTSE Italy (+4.7%), German Dax (+3.1%), France's CAC (+5.0%) and FTSE 100 (+1.5%) all moved higher. Looking at economic data, conditions are still difficult in the EU. An increase in underlying inflation was a rare piece of good news for the ECB but remains below its target of 2.0%. Italy recorded its lowest manufacturing PMI (47.8) since 2013 which suggests the recession which began late last year may well drag on into 2019. Brexit uncertainty continues to weigh on business sentiment as the 29 March deadline to leave the EU draws closer. The UK services PMI fell to 50.1 and many businesses cited Brexit as the key reason for weaker demand.
