PERFORMANCE COMMENTARY

Markets declined in August before recovering slightly. Tensions heightened after Fitch downgraded the US credit rating, driving US real bond yields to their highest level since 2009. European natural gas prices shot up by nearly 40% due to potential disruptions in the global supply of liquefied natural gas from Australia. Concurrently, oil prices reached a nine-month peak, further intensifying overarching inflation concerns.

The Chinese economy remains of concern. In response to escalating concerns over deflationary pressures and a sagging property market, Chinese authorities intensified their yuan interventions to prevent swift depreciation, and the People's Bank of China announced cuts to its mortgage rates for the first time since the great financial crisis – but the market believes further stimulus is required. President Xi attended the BRICS summit in Johannesburg, where membership was expanded from five to eleven nations as top oil exporter Saudi Arabia joined the bloc along with Iran, Egypt, Argentina, Ethiopia and the United Arab Emirates in an ambitious push to expand global influence.

In the US, remarkable consumer endurance has maintained inflation above the 2% mark, prompting the US Federal Reserve to again underscore its commitment to curtail it. Trump was booked on felony charges in Georgia and his mug shot went viral along with his popularity, highlighting the US presidential elections on the horizon.

The US remains resilient, and a cyclical manufacturing turnaround is possible. The tailwinds suggest good news over the coming months, but history suggests that the aggressive monetary tightening of the past year will eventually lead to an economic slowdown. While we expect inflation to remain sticky, it will fall along with growth as excess savings from Covid run out and China continues to export deflation. This is bullish for bonds and the dollar. As the global economy is not out of the woods quite yet, we remain cautiously positioned.

The FTSE/JSE CAPPED SWIX Index decreased by 4.8%, Industrials were down 5.1% and Financials dropped by 1.8%. The JSE All Bond Index declined by 0.2%, while the rand depreciated by 6.5% relative to the US dollar.
